

DOTCH FLAVOUR FOODS

Website Gap Analysis

Current Developer Sitemap vs. Agreed Brand and Commercial Direction

Prepared for the Dotch Flavour website team

Executive summary

The developer has created a useful technical foundation, but the current sitemap still reads as a general food-ordering website. The agreed direction is a premium, founder-led Nigerian food brand with several distinct revenue streams: fresh food orders, Ready Soups, catering, experiences, corporate work, wholesale and future merchandise. The next stage should therefore focus on correcting the structure, strengthening the customer journey and adding the missing sales, delivery and compliance functions.

1. At-a-Glance Assessment

Area	Current Position	Required Direction	Assessment
Technical structure	Core public pages and individual soup pages are present.	Retain the foundation and reorganise it around the agreed commercial model.	Good start
Brand positioning	Feels like a standard food website.	Premium, editorial, founder-led and story-rich.	Major gap
Sales journey	Shop and product pages exist, but the complete buying journey is unclear.	Bundles, minimum order, flat delivery logic, checkout and clear calls to action.	Major gap
Revenue streams	Fresh food, soups and generic services are shown.	Fresh food, Ready Soups, catering, experiences, corporate, wholesale and merchandise.	Incomplete
Legal and customer information	Privacy Policy and Delivery Terms appear.	Complete legal and customer-information suite.	Incomplete

2. Page-by-Page Gap Analysis

Website Area	Current Version	Required Version	Action	Priority
Home	Present	Keep, but redesign around a premium hero, Ready Soups, fresh menu, Meet Abi, proof, reviews and strong calls to action.	Improve	High
About Us	Present	Use as the main brand story page. It should explain the 2008 Nigeria origin, UK journey, philosophy and brand promise.	Improve	High
Meet Abi	Not present; a generic Team page exists	Remove the generic Team page and replace it with a dedicated first-person founder profile.	Replace	High
Ready Soups	Called "Ready To Eat Soups"	Rename to "Ready Soups by Dotch Flavour" and present it clearly as a sub-brand.	Rename	High
Individual soup pages	Five product pages are present	Keep. Add price, portion guidance, ingredients, allergen notice, storage, reheating, delivery and related bundle options.	Improve	High
Fresh Menu	Present	Keep as the current weekly/fresh-food ordering route, with ordering deadlines and WhatsApp call to action.	Improve	High
Our Menu	Present alongside Fresh Menu	Clarify the difference or merge. Two similar menu pages may confuse customers.	Review/Merge	High

Website Area	Current Version	Required Version	Action	Priority
Shop	Present but generic	Use Shop only as an umbrella for Ready Soups and future merchandise, not as an unexplained standalone page.	Improve	Medium
Services	Present but generic	Remove the generic label and replace it with a clear Catering page.	Replace	High
Catering	Not clearly present	Add a dedicated catering page with minimum order, service types, lead times, payment terms and quote call to action.	Add	High
Request a Quote	Missing	Add a structured quote form for events, private orders and corporate enquiries.	Add	High
Dotch Flavour Experience	Event Registration exists, but no permanent experience page	Create a premium brand-experience page. Event registration should sit beneath a named event, not stand alone.	Add/Restructure	High
Corporate Catering	Missing	Add a dedicated route or clearly defined section for offices, meetings and business events.	Add	Medium
Wholesale / Stockists	Missing	Add an enquiry page for retailers and stockists, even if sales are handled manually at first.	Add	Medium
Merchandise	Missing	Add later or label "Coming Soon". Tote bags and wooden spoons are launch incentives before becoming full retail products.	Phase 2	Low
Testimonials	Separate page exists	Retain the content, but place reviews across Home, Ready Soups and Catering. A separate page can remain secondary.	Reposition	Medium
Blog	Present with six generic articles	Keep the blog but replace placeholder-style topics with authentic founder, product and customer stories.	Improve	Medium
Contact Us	Present	Add WhatsApp, catering enquiries, wholesale enquiries, response time and practical ordering guidance.	Improve	Medium
FAQ	Present	Expand to cover fresh orders, Ready Soups, minimum order, delivery, storage, reheating, allergens, cancellations and catering.	Improve	High

3. Features and Sales Functions

Feature	Current Position	Required Implementation	Priority
Bundle ordering	Not confirmed in sitemap	Customers must be able to select 3, 5, 10 or 18 soups and mix flavours.	High
Minimum order	Not shown	Set a minimum online order of 3 Ready Soups. Single-bowl requests can be handled manually where appropriate.	High
Delivery charge	Not confirmed	Add £9.99 once per eligible order, not per product. The fee must be visible before payment.	High
Weight control	Not shown	Prevent a single shipping charge from being applied beyond the final tested parcel limit. Confirm the safe maximum after weighing the packed products.	High
Stripe integration	To be completed	Customer pays products and delivery together. Dotch Flavour then pays DHL through its business account.	High
PayPal	Previously agreed but not evidenced in sitemap	Confirm whether this is launching alongside Stripe or in a later phase.	Medium
Guest checkout	Private routes excluded, so status is unknown	Must be available so customers are not forced to create an account.	High
Customer accounts	Private routes excluded, so status is unknown	Allow order history, saved details and repeat ordering, provided this does not delay launch.	Medium
WhatsApp ordering	Not shown	Use as an interim and secondary route for fresh-menu orders and special enquiries.	High
Quote forms	Missing	Separate catering, corporate and wholesale enquiry forms, or one smart	High

Feature	Current Position	Required Implementation	Priority
		form with clear enquiry types.
Email capture	Not shown	Add newsletter consent and launch updates with compliant opt-in wording.	Medium
Order confirmation	Not shown	Automated email with products, delivery fee, delivery expectations, storage guidance and contact details.	High

4. Homepage Content Required

Homepage Section	What It Must Do
Hero section	Clear premium proposition, strong food imagery and primary actions: Shop Ready Soups / Order Fresh Food / Request Catering Quote.
Ready Soups introduction	Explain convenience, authentic taste, freshly prepared and frozen, with the five flavours and bundle route.
Meet Abi	A short, warm founder introduction linking her career, her 2008 journey and the creation of Ready Soups.
Our story	Nigeria to the UK, with continuity of recipes, customers and standards.
How it works	Choose your bundle, select flavours, checkout, receive frozen delivery, store and reheat.
Featured products	Five Ready Soups and selected fresh-menu favourites.
Why Dotch Flavour	Authentic recipes, natural ingredients, no preservatives, quality, care and convenience.
Social proof	Customer reviews, WhatsApp testimonials and event/catering feedback.
Catering call to action	Clear route to request a quote.
Newsletter / launch updates	Simple consent-led sign-up.

5. Legal and Customer Information Pages

Page	Current Status	Required Action
Privacy Policy	Present	Review against the final data collection, payments, analytics and mailing tools.
Delivery Terms	Present	Rename or expand into a customer-friendly Delivery Policy alongside legal terms.
Website Terms and Conditions	Missing	Add
Cookie Policy and Consent	Missing	Add cookie banner and policy based on the actual cookies used.
Refund, Returns and Cancellation Policy	Missing	Add
Catering Booking Policy	Missing	Add
Allergens and Food Safety	Missing	Add prominently and link from products and checkout.
Storage and Heating Guide	Missing	Add as a practical customer guide.
Website and Product Disclaimer	Missing	Add
Accessibility Statement	Missing	Add
Email and Newsletter Terms	Missing	Add or incorporate within Terms and Privacy where legally

Page	Current Status	Required Action
		appropriate.
Expanded FAQs	Page present	Update with the agreed operational information.

6. Items to Remove, Replace or Avoid

Item	Direction
Generic Team page	Remove. The brand should be founder-led through Meet Abi. Individual operational team profiles are not currently necessary.
Generic Services page	Replace with Catering and clearly named commercial services.
Duplicate menu routes	Resolve Fresh Menu vs. Our Menu so customers do not have to guess which page to use.
Ready To Eat Soups wording	Replace with the agreed sub-brand name, Ready Soups by Dotch Flavour.
Placeholder-style blog content	Do not publish generic articles simply to fill the blog. Content should come from the founder, the products and real customer needs.
Event Registration as a main standalone route	Place registration beneath the Dotch Flavour Experience or a specific named event.
Unverified sustainability claims	Only publish biodegradable, oven-safe, microwave-safe or recyclable claims after confirming the exact packaging specification.
Unverified delivery promises	Do not promise next-day delivery everywhere or at all times until DHL collection, cut-off times and postcode exclusions are confirmed.

7. Prioritised Implementation Plan

Phase	Scope	Timing
Launch-critical	Finalise names and navigation; Ready Soup prices; 3/5/10/18 bundles; 3-soup minimum; £9.99 delivery logic; Stripe; checkout; product pages; WhatsApp route; allergens; delivery, cancellation and terms pages.	Before sales go live
Brand-critical	Homepage storytelling; Meet Abi; Our Story; premium photography; reviews; How It Works; catering and quote pages.	Before the main campaign
Growth	Corporate, wholesale/stockist enquiry, newsletter automation, customer accounts, blog programme.	Immediately after launch or when ready
Later phase	Full merchandise store, wishlist, advanced search and fully customised shipping packaging.	Do not delay launch

8. Key Decisions Still to Confirm

- Final Ready Soup launch date and final Dotch Flavour Experience date.
- Final tested packed weight per bowl and maximum bowls per DHL parcel.
- Whether the £9.99 delivery fee applies to all UK postcodes or whether exclusions/surcharges exist.
- DHL collection cut-off times, delivery-day commitment and frozen-food acceptance requirements.
- Final packaging material claims and whether the container is genuinely biodegradable, recyclable, microwave-safe and oven-safe.
- Final business contact number, company number, registered address and food business registration details.
- Whether PayPal launches at the same time as Stripe.
- Final catering cancellation terms and response time for quote requests.

Accompanying Message to the Website Developer

Hi Damilare,

Thank you for sending the current sitemap. It is helpful to see the foundation that has already been built. We have now reviewed it against the fuller brand, customer and commercial direction for Dotch Flavour Foods.

I have attached a website gap analysis which sets out clearly what should remain, what needs to be renamed or restructured, what is still missing and what should be prioritised before the Ready Soups sales launch.

The main point is that the website should not be developed as a generic food-ordering site. We are building a premium, founder-led Nigerian food brand with distinct routes for fresh food orders, Ready Soups, catering, experiences, corporate enquiries and wholesale opportunities. The structure and customer journey therefore need to reflect those different parts of the business.

Please review the document carefully and come back with:

1. what is already completed behind the public sitemap;
2. what you can implement immediately;
3. anything that requires further information from us;
4. any technical limitations or additional development time; and
5. an updated implementation timeline, starting with the launch-critical items.

The immediate priorities are the correct Ready Soups naming, the 3, 5, 10 and 18 soup bundles, a minimum online order of three soups, the flat £9.99 delivery charge applied once per eligible order, Stripe checkout, the improved product information, the relevant legal pages and a clear WhatsApp route while we prepare for launch.

Please do not remove or rebuild work unnecessarily. The document is intended to help us refine the existing foundation and make sure that every new change is aligned. Once you have reviewed it, Michael can coordinate any questions and the information you need from the wider team.

Thank you.

Source note: This analysis was prepared from the developer sitemap dated 27 July 2026, which lists 26 public URLs and excludes private admin, authentication, checkout, order and API routes. Any feature marked "unknown" should therefore be confirmed with the developer rather than assumed to be absent.